What is an Abbeyfield House?

The Abbeyfield Housing concept began in England in 1955 and there are about 800 Abbeyfield Houses globally. All Abbeyfield Societies operate according to the “guiding principles” of the Abbeyfield Movement, foremost of which is that older people have an important role to play amongst their families, friends, and in the larger community.

Abbeyfield Houses are retirement homes with a difference. They offer a warm, family-style residence that allows companionship with privacy, security with independence. There are currently 19 Abbeyfield Houses across Canada,

Abbeyfield House St Peters

Abbeyfield St Peters is a small independent-living seniors’ facility located in a quiet residential neighbourhood of Victoria on Southern Vancouver Island. Abbeyfield House St Peters is operated by Abbeyfield St Peters Society and supported by a Volunteer Board of Directors and other volunteers from the surrounding community. Abbeyfield House St Peters is also a registered charity and we gratefully accept donations. A tax receipt will be provided.

Is Abbeyfield St Peters for You?

Are you retired and ready to give up the chores of grocery shopping, cooking all your own meals, and maintaining a home?

At Abbeyfield you will have more time to enjoy life and none of the stress of house and yard maintenance. Fresh nutritious meals are prepared daily to support your healthy aging. And if your needs increase with time, you may contract with Island Health and other social agencies for supportive care while continuing to reside at Abbeyfield. Personal care and nursing care are not provided by Abbeyfield House staff.

Are you interested in a more social environment?

Abbeyfield residents are of diverse backgrounds, and have a common desire to share their experiences and interests in a family-style setting.

Life At Abbeyfield St Peters?

Accommodation Our home has twelve main level independent-living private studio suites, each with a 2-piece ensuite and separate entrance onto your own private quiet patio surrounded by beautiful gardens. You furnish your suite with your own belongings and maintain it as your private home.

The common living, dining and activity room are shared areas and maintained by staff. A common laundry and two shower/tub rooms complete the main level. The House Coordinator’s private suite and a guest suite for your out-of-town guests at a reasonable cost are on the upper level.

Meals and snacks are included

Fresh nutritious meals are prepared by our cooking staff twice per day while you prepare your own breakfast and snacks at your leisure in the community kitchen.

House Coordinator

The live-in House Coordinator is responsible for coordinating the household including meal planning and preparation and ensures main entrances are locked.

Cost

Each resident pays 30% of their monthly income for rent plus an additional amount for food and services. Provincial rental subsidy is available if you qualify.
